Protecting America's Schools: A U.S. Secret Service Analysis of Targeted School Violence

10 Key Findings of the U.S Secret Service Analysis of Targeted School Violence

- ▶ There is no profile of a student attacker, nor is there a profile for the type of school that has been targeted
- ▶ Attackers usually had multiple motives, the most common involving a grievance with classmates
- ▶ Most attackers used firearms, and firearms were most often acquired from the home.
- ▶ Most attackers had experienced psychological, behavioral, or developmental symptoms
- ▶ Half of the attackers had interests in violent topics
- ▶ All attackers experienced social stressors involving their relationships with peers and/or romantic partners
- ▶ Nearly every attacker experienced negative home life factors
- ▶ Many attackers felt bullied, persecuted, or injured by others prior to the attack.
- ▶ Most attackers were victims of bullying, which was often observed by others
- ▶ Most attackers had a history of school disciplinary actions, and many had prior contact with law enforcement
- ▶ All attackers exhibited concerning behaviors. Most elicited concern from others, and most communicated their intent to attack:

Violence

Violence is the Behavior involving physical force intended to hurt, damage, or kill someone or something.

Disruptive vs. violent Pupils

disruptive pupil

- ▶ Is substantially disruptive of the educational process or interferes with the teacher's authority over the classroom.

violent pupil

- ▶ Commits an act of violence on a teacher, other school district employee, or fellow student;
- ▶ Possesses, displays, or threatens to use a gun, knife, or other dangerous weapon;
- ▶ Knowingly and intentionally damages or destroys school district property.

Section 3214 - Chapter 16, Title IV, Article 65, Part I, section 3, part a. “Teacher removal of a disruptive pupil”

Commissioner's Regulation Article 8 CRR-NY 100.2 (gg) Revised School Safety and Educational Climate (SSEC) Effective 7/1/2021

Uniform violent or disruptive incident reporting system also known as the "School safety and educational climate reporting system".

Violent or disruptive incident shall mean one of the following categories of incidents that occurs on school property of the school district, board of cooperative educational services, charter school or county vocational education and extension board, committed with or without a weapon (except in the case of weapons possession):

- ▶ Homicide. Any intentional violent conduct which results in the death of another person.
- ▶ Sexual offense. An act committed by a person 10 years of age or older which would constitute a felony under Article 130 of the Penal Law, taking into consideration the developmental capacity of the person to form the intent to commit such act, and where the school has referred the person to the police for the act.
- ▶ Assault. An act committed by a person 10 years of age or older which would constitute a felony under Article 120 of the Penal Law, taking into consideration the developmental capacity of the person to form the intent to commit such act, and where the school has referred the person to the police for the act.
- ▶ Threat (other than bomb threat or false alarm). A verbal, telephoned, written or electronic message of a threat of violence on school property or at a school related function.

Crisis Prone vs Crisis Prepared

- ▶ Worker focused survey
- ▶ Improving Your Workplace Violence Prevention Program

Crisis-Prone vs. Crisis-Prepared Organizations
Crisis-Prone	Crisis-Prepared
Reacts to crisis, rather than reading the warning signs that might allow problems to be prevented or mitigated.	Maintains effective systems for collecting, reporting and analyzing signs of distress at an early stage.
Pays lip service to human issues but pays real attention only to bottom line figures and business interests.	Cultivates a sense of mutual interest among stakeholders, including unions, in responding effectively to problems before they reach a critical stage.
Holds fast to denial, summarily expelling or punishing employees perceived as deviant, rather than confronting their behavior and its causes.	Develops and fully disseminates in advance a policy for dealing with potential and actual crises.
"Delegates" responsibility for programs and policies involving employee welfare to lower levels while top leadership remains remote, especially during times of change and stress.	Encourages a climate in which employees feel free to communicate their distress to management and management feels a responsibility to respond.
Directs communication in a crisis outward (e.g., toward the public, stockholders, and the media) rather than inward, toward employees.	Engages in effective problem-solving rather than confrontation.
Remains mired in adversarial standoff, thwarting genuine internal communication and problem-solving.	Does not deny problems or seek to avoid dealing with them by expelling or suppressing "deviants."

Body Mapping Exercise for Organizers

You will need:

A large piece of paper

Markers • Tape

A set of sticky dots in seven different colors:

Orange: Injuries caused by doing the same activity over and over

Yellow: Sickness or pain you feel due to stress.

Dark Green: Contact with dangerous chemicals.

Dark Blue: Injuries (physical or emotional) due to workplace violence.

Red: Contact with blood or other bodily fluids.

Light Green: All other health problems caused by your work, such as skin rash, sinus infection, asthma, hearing loss, or cancer.

Light Blue: All other injuries caused by your work, such as bruises, broken bones, eye injuries, or electric shock.

Goal: Find out which injuries or illnesses workers have in common. Use that new awareness of common issues to involve more workers in collective actions that make lasting changes.

This works best with a group of workers from the same department, or who do the same type of work. That way, the map you create will show a picture of the specific injuries, illnesses and stresses that affect workers in that particular department or job. If you can't get workers together in a group, consider posting the body map in an area where workers gather and asking them to do the exercise one-by-one for their particular job or department. Finish the discussion later when you can get a group meeting together.

Step 1: Draw an outline of a body (front and back) on a large piece of paper.

Step 2: Ask each person to think about problems at their work that cause them to get hurt, sick or stressed. Tell them to put the correct colored dots on the body parts that are affected. For example, a worker who gets sick from a chemical could put a dark green dot near the nose, where the chemical was breathed in. Or they could put the dot on the lungs if the lungs were affected. For occupational stress, some workers could put a yellow dot on the body's head or neck/shoulder if they feel pain there. Others might put the dot on the stomach to show stomachaches.

Step 3: Ask the workers to find the most common injuries and illnesses that are on the body maps. Remind everyone that each dot is caused by a hazard or problem in the workplace that needs to be fixed. In the next exercise (hazard mapping), they will work together to identify these hazards so someone can make a plan to correct them.

Step 4: Bring the conversation back to the issue of power. Ask the group: What do you think would have happened if you approached management by yourself about your specific illness or injury? How might it be different if a large group of workers who share the same issue acted together?

More Information: <https://www.coshnetwork.org/sites/default/files/Mapping%20NLC.pdf>

Work Shouldn't Hurt

"I have been physically assaulted multiple times by students in the building and they know that not only is there no one to stop them, but there will be no consequence either. I ended up in the hospital the last time."

Physical & verbal violence directed at educators contribute to high stress and create unsafe work environments. This all contributes to the numbers of individuals avoiding and leaving the profession.

Physical Victimization by Students*

*Includes objects thrown, weapon use, sexual assault, and physical attacks

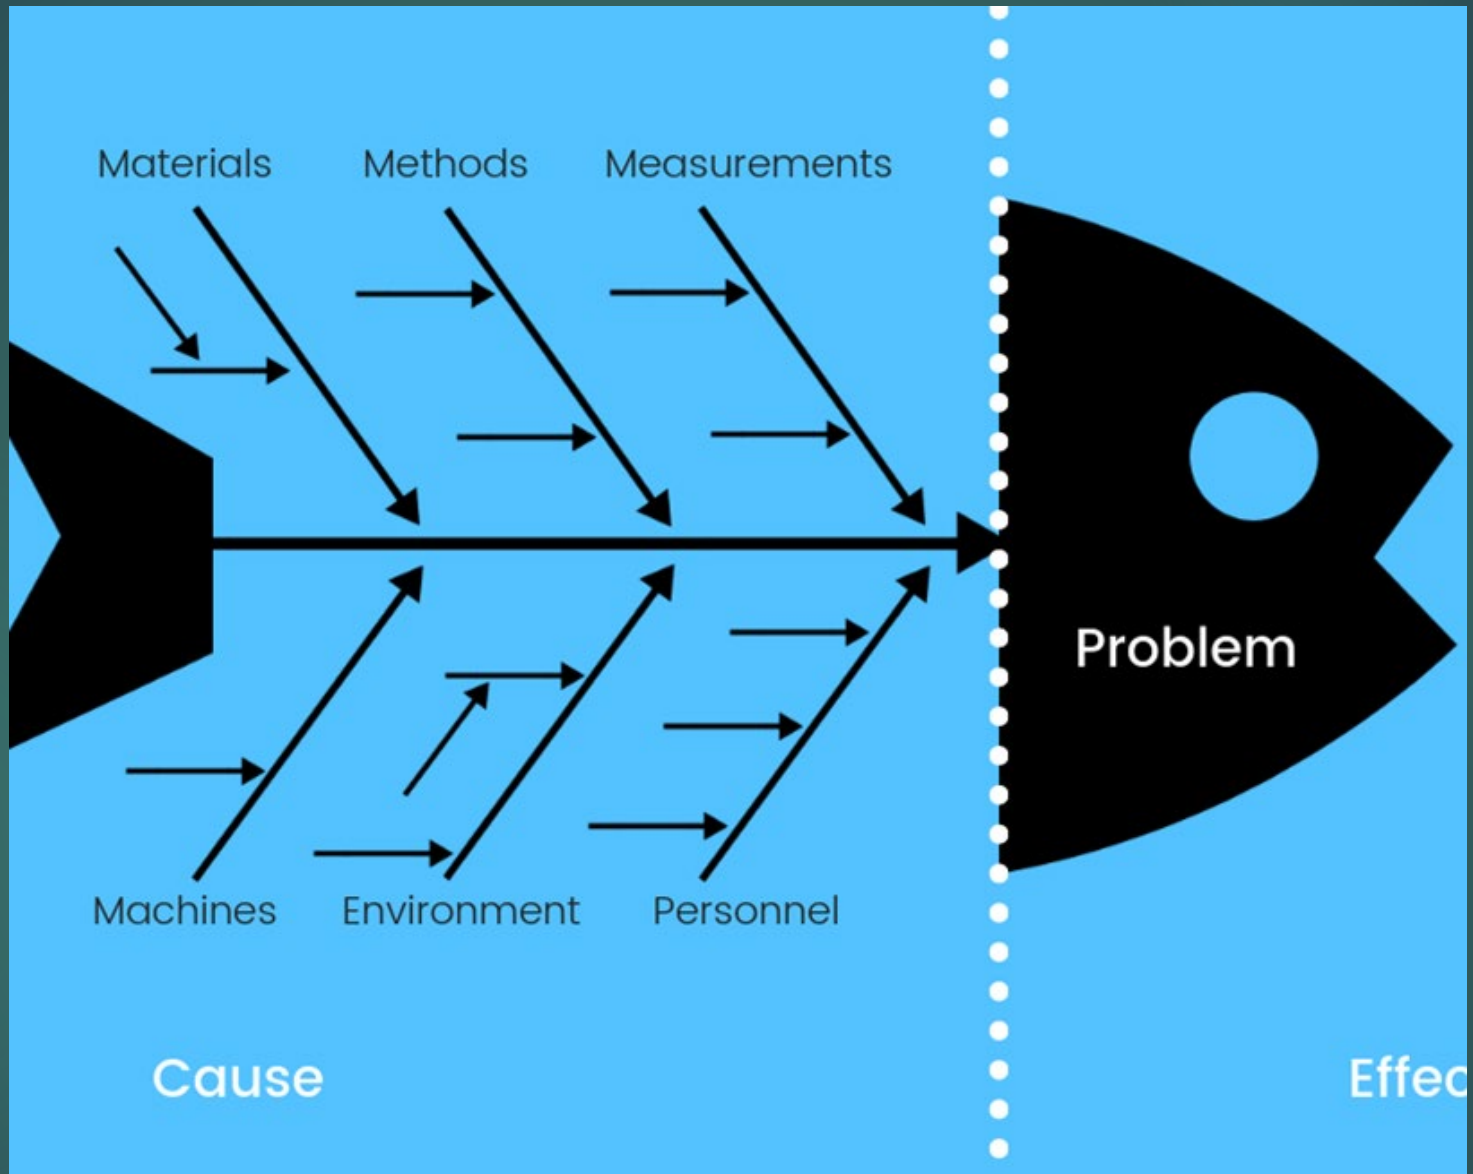

The American Psychological Association Services Inc. Task Force Study conducted from July 2020 to June 2021, nearly 15,000 teachers, administrators, school psychologists, social workers and other school staff members

STEP 2:

CHECKLIST

NEEDS ASSESSMENT

MEET WITH DISTRICT
OFFICIALS

Need for Supportive and Nurturing School Climate Alternatives to punitive discipline

- ▶ School architecture often mimics prisons --The environment further “prison-ized,” especially in low-income communities of color:
- ▶ Increased police presence, metal detectors, security cameras and wand searches.
- ▶ Police respond to student behavior problems and mental health crises, often without proper training.
- ▶ Behavior of students is increasingly controlled – emphasis on silence and order, strict control of time and physical movement

There is a Need to include:

- ▶ Restorative Practices
- ▶ Positive Behavioral Interventions and Supports (PBIS)
- ▶ Trauma-informed approaches and social-emotional learning

MUST be in educators’ toolboxes

Reliance on Harsh School Discipline Policies, Out of School Suspensions, Expulsions and School Policing

- Punishment may be punitive, and some codes of conduct create mandatory punishments for even minor offenses. “Zero Tolerance”
- No work involved or learning taking place when a student is suspended or expelled
- “Lets kids off the hook” – does not change behavior
- Ignores facing impact of actions and decisions; ignores how the offense impacts others
- Goal is to allow students to learn from their mistakes, create ways to repair the harm and accept responsibility for their actions
- Educators want to see acceptance of responsibility and they also want to see decrease in repeated conduct

Traditional Approach	Restorative Approach
School rules are broken.	People and relationships are harmed.
Justice focuses on establishing guilt.	Justice identifies needs and responsibility.
Accountability = punishment	Accountability = understanding impact and repairing harm
Justice directed at the offender; the victim is ignored.	Offender, victim, and school all have direct roles in the justice process.
Rules and intent outweigh whether outcome is positive or negative.	Offender is responsible for harmful behavior, repairing harm and working towards positive outcomes.
Limited opportunity for expressing remorse or making amends	Opportunity given to make amends and express remorse

SRP is Action Based

The Standard Response Protocol (SRP) is based on the response to any given situation not on individual scenarios. Like the Incident Command System (ICS), SRP demands a specific vocabulary but also allows for great flexibility. The premise is simple - these five specific actions that can be performed during an incident. When communicating these, the action is labeled with a "Term of Art" and is then followed by a "Directive." Execution of the action is performed by active participants.

Hold is followed by the Directive: "In Your Room or Area" and is the protocol used when hallways need to be kept clear of occupants.

Secure is followed by the Directive: "Get Inside. Lock Outside Doors" and is the protocol used to safeguard people within the building.

Lockdown is followed by "Locks, Lights, Out of Sight" and is the protocol used to secure individual rooms and keep occupants quiet and in place.

Evacuate and may be followed by a location, and is used to move people from one location to a different location in or out of the building.

TEACHERS HAVE

THE LEGAL AUTHORITY TO REMOVE A STUDENT FROM THEIR CLASSROOM CONSISTENT WITH THE DISCIPLINE MEASURES CONTAINED IN THE DISTRICT'S CODE OF CONDUCT.

- TRADITIONAL PREVENTION AND INTERVENTION STRATEGIES SHOULD BE USED BY THE TEACHER PRIOR TO CONSIDERING REMOVAL OF THE STUDENT.
- CONTINUED EDUCATIONAL PROGRAMMING AND ACTIVITIES ARE REQUIRED FOR ANY STUDENT REMOVED FROM THE CLASSROOM.

FAPE- Is the District negligent?

▶ What FAPE requires a school to do

- Provide special education to meet the unique needs of a child. This means specially designed instruction. For example, a student with reading challenges might be taught with a multisensory reading program.
- Provide related services to help the child benefit from special education. Related services may include things like speech therapy, counseling, or even transportation.
- Provide these services for free — at no cost to parents and caregivers.
- Provide accommodations and modifications that help kids learn and participate in the general education curriculum. Audiobooks and extra time for schoolwork are examples of accommodations. See a list of common accommodations in the classroom.
- Create an Individualized Education Program (IEP). This is a written plan for a child's special education experience at school. By law, an IEP must include things like services, progress monitoring, annual goals, and more.
- Teach kids in the least restrictive environment (LRE). As much as possible, kids with IEPs should be learning alongside their classmates. Putting kids in separate classes is only allowed if it's necessary to meet their unique needs.

Safe Schools Task Force Recommendations for Reducing Disparities In and Reforming School Discipline in New York State: Goals & Themes

Exclusionary discipline:

- has long-term, cumulative negative effects, especially on our students of color and students with special needs.
- does nothing to solve the underlying issues or root causes.

Reforms must be made throughout the entire educational system.

Permanent directed funding must be allocated through the Budget process.

Task Force Recommendations: Goals & Themes

- Cross-agency collaboration between the Executive, Legislature, school leaders, and families.
- Restrict use of exclusionary discipline with our youngest students; limit use for subjective minor infractions; limit the length of suspensions.
- School policy and practice must shift from punitive structure to helping students learn from their mistakes, providing proactive & supportive alternatives to keep students in class.
- Schools must collect data to measure positive interventions, effectiveness of strategies in reducing disparities.
- Educators must be supported beginning with staff preparation programs and continuing through in-service professional development.

Recommendations for Reducing Disparities In and Reforming School Discipline in New York State:

Report from the Safe Schools Task Force
January 2023
Presentation to the Board of Regents

Removal of Students with Disabilities

- Code must ensure removal of students with disabilities complies with State and Federal laws relating to students with disabilities.
- Teachers should be informed of behavior management strategies and/or intervention to address student's behavior included in an IEP or Behavior Intervention Plan.
- Removal does not constitute a disciplinary change in placement for a student with a disability.

Creating a Safe, Supportive, and Affirming School Environment for Transgender and Gender Expansive Students: 2023 Legal Update and Best Practices

Laws to Protect Students

New York State's robust anti-discrimination laws illustrate the state's commitment to ensuring that all students are educated in a safe and supportive school environment

New York State Human Rights Law (HRL), amended by the Gender Expression Non-Discrimination Act (GENDA), expressly prohibits discrimination by educational institutions against students and applicants based on their actual or perceived sex and gender identity or expression—meaning their actual or perceived gender-related identity, appearance, behavior, expression, or other gender-related characteristic, regardless of the sex assigned to that person at birth, including, but not limited to, the status of being transgender

The Gender Recognition Act (GRA) is a comprehensive bill that updates and clarifies many issues related to name changes and correcting sex designations/gender markers on identity documents for transgender and nonbinary New Yorkers

New York State Education Law §3201-a prohibits discrimination based on sex with respect to admission into or inclusion in courses of instruction and athletic teams in public schools.

Prohibiting a student from accessing the restrooms that match [their] gender identity is prohibited sex discrimination under Title IX

How does the Dignity Act Relate to SAVE Requirements?

Code of Conduct CR 100.2(l)

Code of Conduct language must be amended – in age-appropriate language

Prohibition of discrimination and harassment of students by students or staff

School Safety and the Educational Climate (SSEC) Reporting (combines VADIR and DASA reporting)

Instruction in civility, citizenship and character education CR100.2(c)

Educators in grades K-12 will be required to teach students civility and social skills to encourage a welcoming and positive school environment.

Family Educational Rights And privacy Act (FERPA)

The Family Educational Rights & Privacy Act Teacher Guide

FERPA is a federal law that requires confidentiality of student information by telling schools what information it may share, and when & who they may share such information with. It also gives parents the right to consent to the disclosure of their child's personally identifiable information ("PII").

Educational Records

Educational records are records directly relating to a student that are maintained by the school or by a third party that the school enlists for certain functions.

For example, a company that provides you with course management software.

Directory Information

Directory information is educational records that are generally not considered harmful to students if publicly released, such as name, age, address, and grade level.

PII can be either directory information or non-directory information.

Non-Directory Information

Non-directory information is educational records that are more sensitive than directory information, such as social security & student ID numbers, grades, disciplinary history, and attendance record.

What does this mean for me?

Under FERPA, you cannot share non-directory, PII information without parental consent. Generally, you can share directory information without parental consent, unless parents have told the school otherwise. So, think carefully about whether an activity, like an online assignment submission program, means sharing student information without parental consent. On the back page is a list of Do's and Don'ts for some routine classroom activities.

FERPA Dos & Don'ts

Do's

- DO ask yourself:
  - Am I sharing student information?
  - Can someone personally identify my student from this information?
  - Do I have parental consent?
- DO check your school's annual FERPA notice to see which educational records it has designated as directory information.
- DO check with the administration office to see if any parents have told the school not to share their child's directory information.
- DO shred student documents before disposal.
- DO use educational technology pre-approved by your school.
- DO check for parental consent before including non-directory information in a student recommendation.

Don't's

- DON'T use educational technology programs that your school does not have a contract for. Check with your school administration if you are unsure whether a contract exists for a particular program.
- DON'T send student grades and other non-directory information via e-mail – if parents ask for their child's grades, pick up the phone instead!
- DON'T publicly post students' personal information online without parental consent.
- DON'T use social networks to connect students with classroom pages and events without parental consent.

Tips

Records that you keep for your own personal memory aid and are for your eyes only, like classroom notes, are not subject to FERPA.

You may disclose non-directory information in an emergency. That is, when it is necessary to protect the health and safety of student(s).

STEP 4:

▶ ORGANIZE

Shared Definitions

POWER

is the ability to achieve a purpose.

ORGANIZING

is utilizing relationships to create action; how working people build collective power to bring fairness and voice to their jobs and strengthen the institutions where they work.

RELATIONSHIPS

The mutual exchange of interests and resources that results in commitment.

A 1:1 is an intentional conversation rooted in deep listening, with the intention of establishing a relationship and identifying mutual self-interest to move toward action.

Attitudes to Bring: Courage and Curiosity!

Listen – don't preach. Build a conversation in which you are a learner about their experience, and about their jobs rather than you giving a speech. You should aim to follow the 75:25 rules where you listen to the member 75% of the time and talk only 25%. There is a tendency for us to try to sell the worker on "the union."

Don't assume. You may think you know what the issues are, but frequently you will be surprised. Different issues matter to different people – ask and listen.

Don't argue. You are not trying to win a debate or score points. All you do by arguing is to make the person defensive. Give the member a chance to ask questions and voice concerns.

CHECKLIST: CHOOSE TACTICS THAT FIT

Your escalating campaign is made up of many tactics. A tactic could be mild, like a survey, or militant, like a work slowdown. It could be traditional, like a picket, or it could be a creative stunt a member just dreamed up. When your group is weighing what tactic to try next, here are some factors to consider:

- Does the action relate to your issue?
- Will it increase the pressure on the decision-maker?
- Is it simple?
- Is it visible?
- Is it timed for effect?
- Is it new and different—or tried and true?
- Are enough people ready to do it?
- How will others react?
- Will it unify people?
- How will management react?
- Could it backfire?
- Does it violate the law or the contract?
- If so, are you prepared for the consequences?
- Will it be fun?

Escalating Campaign

- ▶ Kick off and Escalation
- ▶ What other activities should we plan that keep our members informed, engaged, agitated?
- ▶ Identify which activities should occur and when?
  - ▶ After each activity how do you evaluate it?
  - ▶ Do expect more people to participate?
  - ▶ Each activity should involve increased risks.
- ▶ Which activity should be at the peak of our mountain? Why?
  - ▶ After each activity are we getting closer to resolving our problem?
